My town

I come from Belcourt a small city in the north–west of Algeria. The population of Belcourt is 7 million. Belcourt is 40 miles from Algiers.

In the west there is the sea, in the east the forest and mountains. There are lakes in the north and industry and cities in the south.

The most expensive areas to live in are Ben Anoun and Hydra. The cheapest area to live is Bab-el-Oud. I lived in Belcourt.

The main industries in my town or food factory and flour mills.

There are religious primary schools and secondary schools and a university. I went to Rochied Boualem school and Olivier school.

In my area there are some small local shops selling food and a big supermarket. There are two cinemas, two stadiums and three swimming pools there.
